The Department of Speech, Language, and Hearing Sciences in the College of Public Health and Health Professions at the University of Florida is seeking applicants for up to three full-time, tenure-track faculty positions at the Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor level. Applicants of all ranks will be considered. These are full-time positions (1.0 FTE on a 12-month contract). Applicants with a track record of external grant funding and current funding portfolio consistent with rank along with evidence of interdisciplinary collaboration will have precedence. Areas of research specialization being sought are hearing science and language development and processing. Some teaching and supervision of graduate and professional students seeking clinical degrees in audiology or speech-language pathology will be expected.

Come join our team at one of the nation’s top university affiliated teaching hospitals and clinics located in beautiful North Central Florida. Applicants must have a doctorate in audiology, speech-language pathology or a related discipline. Post-doctoral experience is considered a plus. Eligibility for licensure to practice in the state of Florida is preferred but not required.

The University of Florida is a comprehensive doctoral research-extensive university that includes a full range of academic departments and programs (www.ufl.edu).
