The Department of Speech, Language, and Hearing Sciences in the College of Public Health and Health Professions at the University of Florida invites applications for a clinical audiology faculty position (official UF title: Clinical Assistant Professor). This is a full-time (1.0 FTE) 12-month, non-tenure, benefitted clinical faculty position. We are especially interested in individuals who have expertise in diagnostic and rehabilitative audiology, and are interested in directing students in a Doctorate of Audiology program. This individual in this position will see adult and pediatric patients at the Speech and Hearing clinic with an emphasis on adult hearing aid services, as well as supervise student clinicians on clinical rotations. Applicants must possess a Doctorate of Audiology, and have or be eligible for Florida licensure.

The University of Florida is a comprehensive doctoral research-extensive university that includes a full range of academic departments and programs (www.ufl.edu). It has a long history of established programs in international education, research and service and is one of only 17 public, land-grant universities that belong to the Association of American Universities. The College of Public Health and Health Professions is part of the University’s Health Science Center, which includes the Colleges of Medicine, Pharmacy, Nursing, Dentistry, and Veterinary Medicine.

To view this job posting online and submit an application packet, which includes a CV, letter of interest, and list of references, go to http://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/cw/en-us/listing and search by job# 496793. Application deadline date is April 18, 2016.

The University of Florida is an Equal Opportunity institution dedicated to building a broadly diverse and inclusive faculty and staff. If an accommodation due to a disability is needed to apply for this position, please call 352-392-2477 or the Florida Relay System at 800-955-8771 (TDD). Searches are conducted in accordance with Florida's Sunshine Law.