Clinical Assistant Professor
Clinical Child-Pediatric Psychology
Department of Clinical & Health Psychology

The Department of Clinical and Health Psychology in the College of Public Health and Health Professions at the University of Florida is seeking applicants for a full-time (1.0 FTE), 12-month Clinical Assistant Professor (non-tenure track) position in Clinical Child and Pediatric Psychology.

Position: The expectation is that this will primarily be a direct clinical service position; however, opportunities for participating in the Department’s mission of training clinical psychology graduate students and predoctoral interns in evidence-based practice will be available. Applicants must have demonstrated expertise in providing evidence-based assessment and treatment with a wide variety of child populations including those with mental health and comorbid medical/health diagnoses. This position requires an individual to have a commitment to the scientist-practitioner model of psychological training, excellent communication skills, and the ability to work effectively in outpatient psychology and multidisciplinary settings. Clinical referrals are received from various medical specialties across the UF Health Science Center, as well as referrals from medical and mental health providers in the surrounding communities. Clinical service needs include the assessment and treatment of children and adolescents struggling with a full range of psychoeducational and psychosocial difficulties, often in the context of comorbid medical conditions.

Work Setting & Gainesville Community: This Clinical Assistant Professor will be a member of the Department of Clinical and Health Psychology, which houses APA-accredited doctoral and internship programs in clinical psychology. Faculty hired into these positions will work closely with colleagues within the department, physicians, and other health care providers in a dynamic healthcare environment. Day-to-day clinical service delivery responsibilities may take place across a variety of settings within the UF Health Science Center, including our outpatient UF Psychology Clinic, on the inpatient units at UF Health & Shands Hospital, and within primary care settings across the UF Health Center. The UF Psychology Clinic is an independent outpatient clinic (http://chp.phhp.ufl.edu/services/psychology-clinic/) with close programmatic interactions with the UF Health comprehensive care programs (https://ufhealth.org/). The UF Health Center is the largest and most comprehensive academic Healthcare Center in the Southeast, encompassing six colleges and a statewide network of affiliated hospitals and clinics (https://ufhealth.org/locations). Gainesville is a beautiful city located in the north-central region of Florida (http://www.cityofgainesville.org/) with low cost of living, affordable housing, great schools, numerous outdoor activities, and all the advantages of a large university community.

Applicant Qualifications: Interested applicants should have completed APA-Accredited graduate and clinical internship programs, have a minimum of one year of post-doctoral training involving service delivery, ideally within hospital and interdisciplinary care settings, and have a background of course work and training in scientist-practitioner focused clinical psychology. Applicants must have a doctoral degree in Clinical, School or Counseling Psychology and be licensed or license-eligible in the State of Florida.

Start Date, Application Materials & Deadline: This position is anticipated to start in the Fall of 2017. The application requires submission of 1) a Letter of Interest, 2) current Curriculum Vitae (CV), and 3) three references. Application review will begin immediately and will be accepted until the February 21, 2017.

Application Submission: All applications must be submitted online. To view the job posting online and submit an application packet, go to http://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/cw/en-us/listing/ and search by Job# 501272. Questions can be directed to Dr. David M. Janicke (djanicke@phhp.ufl.edu).
